EMPLOYEE POLICY HANDBOOK

Sample document for the Java RAG demonstration

Effective date: 1 January 2026

This sample handbook exists only to demonstrate document ingestion and grounded question answering. Replace it with your organization's approved policy before using the application for real decisions.

1. Annual leave

Full-time employees receive 20 paid annual-leave days per calendar year. Leave accrues monthly from the employee's start date. Up to 5 unused days may be carried into the next calendar year; carried leave must be used by 31 March or it expires.

Requests for 1 or 2 consecutive days should be submitted at least 3 working days in advance. Requests for 3 or more consecutive days should be submitted at least 10 working days in advance. A manager may approve exceptions for emergencies.

2. Remote work

Employees may work remotely for up to 3 days each week when their role and team commitments allow it. The employee and manager must agree on a regular remote-work schedule in writing. Core collaboration hours are 10:00 to 15:00 in the employee's local time zone.

Working outside the employee's country of employment requires written approval from Human Resources and the Legal team before travel is booked. Approval is not automatic because tax, security, and immigration rules may apply.

3. Code of conduct

Everyone must treat colleagues, customers, and partners with respect. Harassment, discrimination, retaliation, threats, and deliberate misuse of company systems are prohibited. Suspected misconduct may be reported to a manager, Human Resources, or the confidential ethics channel.

Employees must protect confidential information and use the minimum access necessary for their work. Company or customer data may not be copied to personal accounts, unapproved storage, or public AI tools.

4. Sick leave

Employees receive 10 paid sick-leave days each calendar year. Notify the manager as soon as reasonably possible. A medical certificate may be requested after 3 consecutive working days of absence, subject to local law.
